Canned fruit or cooked dried fruit—pineapple, apricots, cherries, peaches, prunes—may be used. Cut whole fruit in half, remove pits. Raw apples or peaches, thinly sliced, are also good.

Cook sugar, fat, and juice or water in fry pan over moderate heat to form thick sirup.

Arrange fruit and sirup in a greased 8- or 9-inch shallow pan. Or use fry pan if it can be put into oven.

Sift together flour, salt, and baking powder. Add to creamed mixture in three portions alternately with milk in two portions.

Pour batter over fruit and sirup. Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) 45 minutes. Cool slightly and turn out carefully.
